The 4-step client handoff.
So the backup is never guessing.

Someone on the team goes on holiday. The client doesn't know and writes on WhatsApp anyway. These four steps make sure the right person answers with the full picture.

1 One owner and one named backup per client.
Written down before anyone books time off, not on the day.

2 A two-line recap the same day.
Anything that changes scope, a deadline or money: what they asked, what was agreed, what happens next. In one place the whole team can read, whichever channel it came in on.

3 A short note per active client before leaving.
Open questions, promises made, who decides on the client side.

4 Tell clients who covers.
So the WhatsApp message reaches the right person the first time.

Step 2 is the one that matters. If the recap only lives in someone's DMs, the backup is guessing.
